

UDC

Biologists don't know much about the infection yet, but epidemiologists think they understand the vectors by which the infection spreads through our human population. To study their research, stay on the university campus and go to the plaza just south of the Genetics and Plant Biology building. (If it's raining, look in the sheltered "throughway" of the G.+P.B. building itself.) Find the UDC agent there.

Did you hear what became the end of these monsters?
